

Future Damage Feared

Following De Gaulle Incident

OTTAWA (AP) — Canadian officials waited with some apprehension today for repercussions from the stormy visit of President Charles de Gaulle. But many were confident the episode would eventually blow over without serious consequences.

Concern was expressed that relations between France and Canada might be damaged by Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson's rebuke to the French president for his public support of French Canadian separatism and De Gaulle's retaliatory flight home Wednesday from Montreal, skipping a visit to Ottawa and a meeting with Pearson.

Pearson, who had termed De Gaulle's espousal of separatism "unacceptable" to the Canadians and their government, issued a terse statement expressing regret over the French leader's hasty exit.

"Gen. de Gaulle's decision to cut short his visit is understandable under the circumstances," Pearson said, "but those circumstances, which are not of the government's making, are greatly to be regretted."

Unabashed by the furor he had caused, De Gaulle administered a final slap to Ottawa as he was flying back to Paris. He radioed a message of thanks for a "magnificent reception" to Premier Daniel Johnson of Quebec and addressed him as "his excellency."

The title is reserved for the governor general, Roland Michener, who had invited De Gaulle and other heads of state to visit Canada during the nation's centennial celebration.

Television Hunt Almost Complete

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The hunt for color television sets which could emit dangerous x-rays is all-but over in Kansas, western Missouri and parts of Nebraska and Iowa.

A spokesman for the Kansas City division office of General Electric Co. said more than 98 per cent of the sets can be traced. He said some still are in stock and the company has the names of the persons who purchased most of the others.

The harmful sets were made between September of 1966 and April 18, 1967. A division official said the fault is easily corrected by exchanging tubes.

In Murder Trial

Sedalian Is Military Attorney In Vietnam

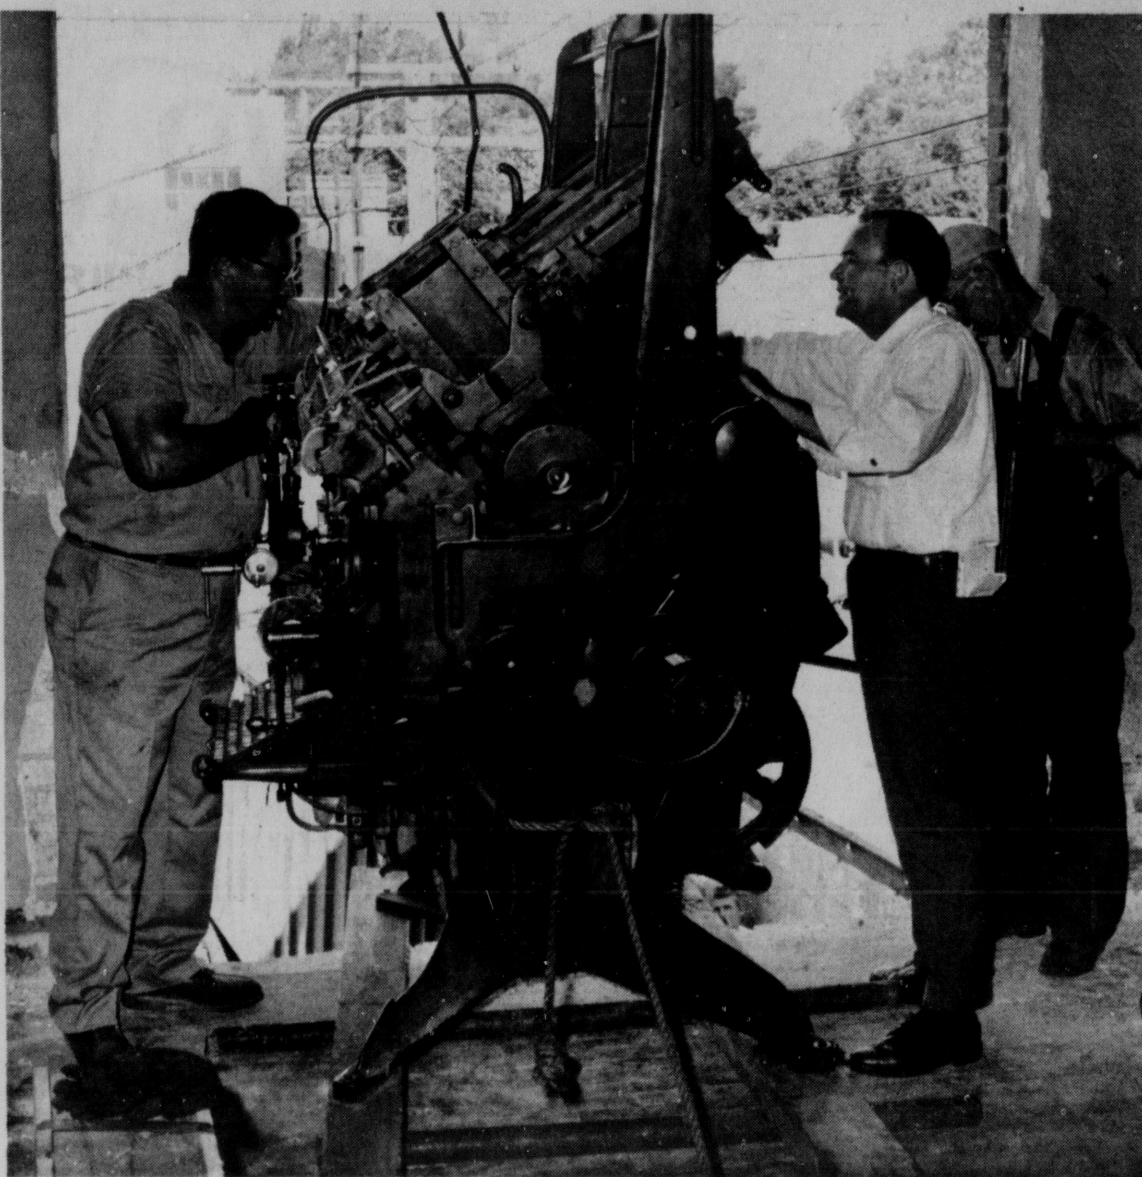

James B. Rice, Jr., son of Dr. & Mrs. J. B. Rice, 1610 West 11th, was defense attorney for Army Staff Sgt. Walter Griffen, 25, East St. Louis, who was convicted of unpremeditated murder in the death of a prisoner in Viet Nam. Griffen was sentenced to ten years in prison by a general court martial in An Khe, South Viet Nam, Wednesday.

According to reports, Griffen testified he followed an order to kill the prisoner. The prosecution termed the act a "stain on the profession of arms," reports stated.

Rice contended the defendant believed the order to have been legal. Rice, according to reports, said Griffen was "a soldier's soldier trained to obey the order first. If we're going to condemn anyone, let's condemn the people who gave the order."

Capt. Rice is a 1958 graduate of Smith-Cotton High School and graduated from the University of Missouri School of law in 1965 with a Doctor of Jurisprudence degree.

He entered the Army in August, 1965, as a faculty member and instructor of military law. A year later he was sent to the Central Highlands in Viet Nam, based

11 Americans Killed

Red Gunners Unleash Strike Against Camp

SAIGON (AP) — Communist gunners unleashed a heavy rocket and mortar attack on an American infantry camp and adjoining airfield north of Saigon today, killing 11 U.S. soldiers and wounding 43.

At the same time two nearby South Vietnamese installations came under similar attack. South Vietnamese headquarters did not announce military casualties but said three civilians were killed and 13 wounded in one on the barracks.

Ground action continued light, as it has been for almost a month, and the scarcity of major action was reflected by a slight decline in the weekly casualty figures. The U.S. Command said 164 Americans were killed last week and 1,442 wounded, compared with 175 killed and 1,443 wounded the week before. South Vietnamese losses were put at 183 dead and 523 wounded compared to 202 killed and 543 wounded the previous week, while 1,702 Communists were reported killed, a drop from 1,995 a week earlier.

On the political front, the South Vietnamese government announced it has asked the United Nations to send observers for the presidential and senatorial elections Sept. 3 to "testify to our determination to hold free and honest elections."

The Communist mortar and rocket assault hit the headquarters of the 1st Infantry Division's 1st Brigade at the airfield at Phuoc Vin, 35 miles north of Saigon, about four hours before dawn.

U.S. Command said there was light damage to installations and equipment at the airfield—a relatively small field used by spotter planes, helicopters and troop transports.

The Red gunners used mostly light mortars but some of the rounds were from Russian-made 122mm rockets, one of the heaviest weapons in the Viet Cong arsenal.

The shells rained on the headquarters and the field for 25 minutes, sending sleeping GIs scurrying for sandbagged bunkers and reaction patrols fanning about the barbed-wire camp perimeters.

Flareships lit the area and American guns under radar control opened up on Communist firing positions. They were located later in the day by ground patrols, abandoned and battered by shellfire but with no

Viet Cong bodies left behind. Heavy thunderstorms over the Hanoi-Haiphong area limited air attacks on North Vietnam Wednesday to supply lines between the industrial area and the southern border.

Eliminate Highway Bond Vote

The probability of a bond issue of some $90,000 to complete the last phase of the Highway Urban Plan went down the drain today when Mayor Walker of Sedalia received notification that the Highway Department would procure the rights-of-way for the South Highway 65 improvement.

Leland Fletcher, Kansas City District Engineer, in his letter to Mayor Walker, said:

"At the July 12, 1967 Highway Commission meeting, Mr. Snider recommended to the Commission that they grant permission to revise the urban agreement with the City of Sedalia to provide for the State to acquire right-of-way for the Route 65 improvement from Route 50 south to the south city limits and for the city to pay the cost of adjusting city-owned utilities. The Commission directed that a supplemental agreement based on this recommendation be prepared for execution.

"This is furnished for your information in order to keep you advised of the current status of this highway project. We will furnish you with a supplemental agreement covering the revision as soon as it has been prepared by our legal division.

"We are pleased that we can now move ahead with this highway project and appreciate your continued cooperation in highway matters."

The Highway Urban Plan bond issue was approved by Sedalia voters in 1959. Since that time, rising costs of materials, real estate and labor caused the fund to run short, and at a recent City Council meeting it was announced that if the Plan was to be completed, a bond issue of some $90,000 would have to be approved.

Walker, elated at the Highway Department's decision, said today that the bond issue will not be necessary. All the City has to pay for now, he said, is the cost of moving City-owned utilities, which can be done with available funds.

The Mayor also indicated that if the Highway Department cannot obtain the rights-of-way through purchase of condemnation proceedings at a reasonable price, an alternate by-pass route is under consideration.

As the plan stands now, the improvement will run from Broadway and Limit south to the south city limits.

Hearing On VOR Set Here

A public hearing on the question of closing the Blackwater VOR station will be held Aug. 11 at Holiday Inn, here, beginning at 1 p.m., according to William Hall, Sedalia Industrial Development director.

Fourth District Congressman William Randall will be here to participate in the discussion, which centers on the Federal Aviation Agency's effort to decommission the Blackwater station which guides instrument-using aircraft to Sedalia.

The dispute has been in progress several weeks now. The FAA contends the station is not necessary and states further the closing of the station is primarily an economic one.

Sedalia and others in the area counter with the claim the station is vital to the operation of the local airport.

Violence Continuing Despite Peace Pleas

Negro Leaders' Bid For Peace Is Ignored

By The Associated Press

Explosions of mob violence continued to rock the nation today despite pleas for peace from Negro leaders, but Detroit, scene of the worst race rioting in the nation's history, was quiet enough this morning for Gov. George Romney to lift an enforced curfew.

Romney also announced that gasoline stations could reopen but were forbidden to sell gasoline in portable containers. Liquor stores were to remain closed but night clubs could reopen if they agreed not to sell liquor, he said.

He said he would ask that the city be declared a disaster area.

Romney's announcement came after a peaceful morning in the city torn by four days of mob terror.

Varied Opinions On Riots

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

With pleas for peace and threats of a fight until death Negroes and whites voiced their opinion about the nation's racial turmoil.

Here's what some said:

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.: "We don't need measures like the anti-riot bill which has sailed through the House of Representatives; we need legislation like the 'anti-rat' bill and the rent supplement proposal which were hooted down in that same chamber."

Sen. Everett Dirksen, Senate Republican leader:

Responsible Negroes "realize what the situation is — that the Negro people are going to be hurt most by this rioting."

First Lt. Winford Parker on Detroit, a Negro soldier in Vietnam: "I've got enough problems fighting a war over here without having to worry about my people back home. I think the majority of the people — the rioters — aren't really concerned with civil rights per se. I think they are exploiting the situation for their own personal gain, such as the vandalism of stores."

John B. Harper, a 20-year-old from Ohio in Vietnam:

"Let them come over here if they want to fight."

Adam Clayton Powell, Harlem congressman-elect at his Bimini island retreat: "Violence is a cleansing force. It frees the native from his inferiority complex." The riots "are a necessary phase on the black revolution — necessary."

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower: The riots seem to follow a "terrifying" pattern. "We cannot excuse ourselves in our failure either to remove the causes" of the riots or to support the police when they occur.

H. Rap Brown, national chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee: "We'll burn the country down."

Spanish Harlem Quiet

Negro Youths Loot Fifth Avenue Area

NEW YORK (AP)—Bands of young Negroes surged into mid-Manhattan early today following a free rock 'n' roll concert in Central Park, pummeling strollers and looting two store windows along fashionable Fifth Avenue.

Quick-moving police, in radio cars with sirens silent and roof lights turned off, raced from incident to incident, arresting a total of 21. It was the first such looting in the area in recent history.

Six more persons were arrested in scattered incidents of window smashing and looting in the Bronx, and new trouble flared in sections of Westchester County, bordering the city to the north.

But Spanish Harlem the upper East Side area by three nights of violence earlier in the week, remained calm.

The homeward-bound theatre crowd and other strollers gawked in surprise as the bands of young Negroes, totalling about 100, raced through the smart streets of midtown.

Police responded with 40 patrol cars and later sent double patrols into the 17-block area of Fifth Avenue extending south of Rockefeller Center and northward to Tiffany's at 57th Street.

A men's shop owner said $15,000 worth of merchandise had been stolen.

A foot patrolman, hand on holster, commented, "This is the wrong area to fool around with. A lot of money is wrapped up here."

Another Negro mob at Columbus Circle reportedly attacked a young married couple, disrobed the woman and took $55 from her husband.

The teen-agers' spree began after they surged out of a free rock 'n' roll concert in Central Park featuring Smokey Robinson and the Miracles. The show was part of a series designed to keep city youth "cool" during the summer.

A police sergeant said the group—"100 to 150 on them"—headed down Broadway, tried unsuccessfully to turn over a taxi, then moved east at 46th

RAP BROWN, wanted by Maryland authorities on a charge of inciting a riot, was released from jail Thursday on $10,000 bail, pending arraignment next month on a fugitive charge. The Black Power militant was greeted by a large group of wellwishers as he left the Alexandria, Va., jail. (UPI)

Wood Shaving

Smithton Industries To Open New Plant

Bill Hall, Sedalia, Director of Industrial Development, was informed today by Jim Sandford, Secretary-Treasurer of the Smithton Industries, Inc., that work has now started on a new woodshavings plant at Smithton. The Smithton Industries, Inc. has purchased five acres of and from John Wagenknecht, who is also president of the firm.

The first building will contain 12,000 square feet and represent a total investment of approximately $200,000. It is designed and equipped to produce 1,000 bales per day of woodshavings, weighing approximately 65 pounds each.

The plant will employ eight persons per shift, and initially will operate only one shift. However, this will require the employment of 15 other people cutting timber to provide the necessary raw material.

Sandford informed Hall that the woodshavings are used in a variety of places, but mainly would be used as litter for turkey raisers. The plant will have incorporated into the production line a drying operation used for kiln drying the woodshavings to destroy harmful fungi and bacteria.

This is an important factor insofar as poultry and livestock using the shavings is concerned. There is no other such plant as this in the State of Missouri that can produce the quantity or quality of litter desired by turkey and other poultry raisers.

As far as litter is concerned, shavings can take the place of straw, and in fact many farmers prefer to use woodshavings because of the absorption quality. Other outlets for the product would be sales barns and show rings, as well as pet owners. Mr. Sandford pointed out that the basic market would be to turkey growers since Missouri produces about ten million turkeys a year.

Arrangements for electric power are being made through the Central Missouri Electric Coop, with an average power consumption per month of 34,000 KWH.

Hall stated that even though the Smithton Industries, Inc. is a smaller employment load than some of the major industries in the county, every job created in Pettis County is of vital importance and the location of this firm is a step in the right direction to help the smaller communities in Pettis County grow.

Mr. Sandford also informed Hall that Earl Earls is to be the new plant manager.

Congratulations are to be extended to the Smithton Industries and to the community of Smithton in their effort to expand the economy of Pettis County as a whole.

Toss Out Speeding Charge

A speeding case in which a Highway Patrol airplane was used to check speed in Pettis County was thrown out of Magistrate Court for lack of evidence Thursday.

Magistrate Judge Frank Armstrong said the case involved Edward William Schroeder, 1617 Wagner Drive, charged with exceeding Missouri speed limits.

According to Armstrong, Schroeder pleaded guilty to the charge. The judge said he refused to accept the plea since the pilot who made the speed check was not in court to testify.

The arrest was made by Lt. E. W. Van Winkle, Missouri Highway Patrol, who testified he received information concerning Schroeder's speed from the plane's pilot, Armstrong said. The judge pointed out that this was hearsay evidence and caused him to dismiss the case.

The judge said a similar case about ten years ago, involving a radar check, received wide notice in legal circles. At that time, the officer operating the radar unit radioed ahead to another Highway Patrolman, who in turn made the arrest. The officer who made the initial check, however, did not appear in court. That case was also dismissed by Armstrong for lack of evidence.

GAL: Oh yes, I saw it in Vogue. Let me see the silhouette. Deep side vents, right? And some waist suppression? Very nice.

SALESMAN: He'll look smart in it, don't you think?

GAL: Of course. Would I lie to you?

GUY: Hmm, O.K.

SALESMAN: That'll be $89.50, sir.

And so it goes. The question inevitably asked is:

"Do women really help husbands, sons and beaux when they offer advice on buying clothes?"

Our wishy-washy answer is:

"Maybe yes, maybe no."

We'll have to admit that women probably have a better sense of style, fit and color than most men and that they've possessed this knowledge since they were thigh-high to a miniskirt. (Although judging by the weird get-ups some ladies of fashion display themselves in, this isn't always true.)

Better Family Living

BY OPAL O'BRIANT
Pettis County Extension Home Economist

This is a busy season for homemakers who are preserving food for fall and winter. We want this food to be nutritious and of top quality. In order to have food of top quality, we need to follow recommended directions. Then, we can justify the time, labor and expense involved in home food preservation.

Check your steam pressure and water bath canners to be sure they are in perfect condition. Discard unusable jars. Follow manufacturers' instructions for lids and sealing. Be sure you have up to date good preservation directions. These may be obtained from your University Extension Center.

Quality a Point

The vegetable you select for canning or freezing should be of high quality. Remember that the shortest time between picking and processing will insure highest quality food. If vegetables have become limp, they will be less tender when frozen or canned. In the case of canned vegetables, there may even be spoilage if the vegetables are delayed in reaching the can. Most vegetables need to be blanched before freezing to retain that peak of quality. Then they need to be cooled rapidly.

Fruits and tomatoes should be canned by the hot water bath process. This means placing the filled containers in a large vessel, with a rack on the bottom, with the water level completely above the tops of the jars. The water must be a rolling boil throughout the processing time to drive out the air in the cans and to get the contents hot enough to keep.

Vegetable canning demands a pressure canner. The boiling water bath is not hot enough to safely preserve the vegetables. Non-acid vegetables (this means every vegetable except tomatoes) may become quite toxic if the temperature of every particle within the jar has not been heated to the proper degree. The pressure canner can do that job; the hot water bath cannot.

Heat is Needed

Pickle products require heat treatment to destroy organisms that cause spoilage, and to inactivate enzymes that may affect flavor, color and texture. Adequate heating is best achieved by processing the filled jars in a boiling water bath. Heat processing is recommended for all pickle products.

What to do when jelly doesn't jell? Don't throw it out — it can be saved. The problem usually is wrapped around the pectin content of the fruit juice. Pectin content differs in kinds of fruit, varieties of fruit, and in ripeness of fruits. To firm-up the jelly, recocking is the answer. Keep the amount of recocking at one time down to 6 cups or less. Larger amounts are hard to handle. To recock with powdered pectin, measure the jelly to be recocked. Then for each quart, you will need one-fourth cup sugar, one-fourth cup water, and 4 teaspoons powdered pectin. Mix just the pectin and water together and bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Then add the runny jelly and the measured one-half cup sugar. Stir constantly and bring the total mixture to a full rolling boil over high heat. Boil hard one-half minute. Remove from heat. Skim. Pour into hot containers and seal.

To recock with liquid pectin, for each quart of unjelled jelly, you will need three-fourths cup sugar, 2 tablespoons lemon juice and 2 tablespoons liquid pectin. Bring the jelly to boiling and quickly add these three ingredients. Bring it back to full rolling boil, stirring constantly, and boil one minute.

When canning for low salt and low sodium diet, remember that vegetables without salt may be given a lift by the addition of a very small amount of complementary seasoning and it does not affect the processing time. For example, beets and carrots may be perked up by the addition of one tablespoon of lemon or orange juice per quart jar. A pinch of spice, fresh herb or dried herb, a tiny bit of pimiento, or a teaspoonful of finely chopped celery will do a lot for green vegetables.

items, it is important to know how to take care of them.

Rule 1: Avoid getting fabric very soiled. Some synthetic fibers used in durable press items absorb and hold on to oily soil, thus it's best to wash often and avoid soil build-up.

Pretreat heavily soiled areas or grease spots by rubbing in a detergent paste or liquid detergent before washing. Test first on an inconspicuous area and make sure that all items treated this way resist fading. If color is fast, let the detergent remain on the fabric for 10 to 15 minutes. On color-sensitive fabrics, remove greasy soil with a dry cleaning solution, then wash by hand with a mild soap or detergent. Wash and rinse quickly, roll loosely in a towel, and hang to dry.

Rule 2: Wash in small loads—sort first of course, and use the right laundry products. Save the hang tags or labels that give laundry instructions. A recipe box in the laundry is a good place to file them. A description of the garment they apply to may be written on each tag or attached to it. Consult the

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I am 30, have three children and am making plans to separate from my husband. He has agreed to pay support money but it will not be enough so I must find employment.

I have not worked for eight years and my shorthand and typing are somewhat rusty. I am also more than a little frightened. Yesterday I filled out a Civil Service form and noted that part of the form was missing. When I inquired as to where I could get the missing pages, I was told to telephone the Post Office Department.

The man with whom I spoke was so rude and impatient that I was in tears by the time he finished screaming at me. Perhaps he had problems greater than mine, but is that justification for taking it out on a person he is supposed to help.

as part of his job? I felt like saying, 'Thank you and God bless you, Sir, for the kindness in your voice.'

Wouldn't this be a better world if everyone spoke to everyone else in the same tone of voice he would use if he were speaking to God? Myself included. --- HOUSTON READER

Dear Houston: Of course it would, but how many mortals behave in a civilized, completely balanced manner at all times?

I am sorry you did not follow your inclination and thank the man for the 'kindness in his voice.' It would have made him realize his thoughtlessness in a way that a sharp retort never could.

Dear Ann Landers: I've had numerous operations and have had to take a lot of medication to relieve the pain. Light doses of medication are ineffective so I take twice as much as normally prescribed. I obtain the medicine through my doctor, of course.

The problem is that I am a poor sleeper and nothing knocks me out like whisky. So every once in a while I take several stiff drinks and go straight to bed. Notice I said 'straight to bed'—I don't go out and raise Cain, nor do I abuse anybody. I just get pleasantly plastered and go to sleep. Isn't it O.K. to use whisky as a sedative? Please say so, because it's the only sure way I know to get a full night's sleep. --- DUFF

Dear Duff: Cut out either the medication or the booze or you could put yourself to sleep permanently. People who combine the two take a big chance. Discuss this with your physician at once.

Dear Ann Landers: I am engaged to a wonderful girl. I have become very close to her family and I think the world of them. Her parents are divorced, and I seem to be the man of the house already.

The problem is an 11-year-old boy. This kid has a terrible chip on his shoulder. Hal sasses his mother and gets into fights with his teachers and neighbors. He has no friends. His father remarried and now has two sons by that marriage. This has hurt Hal a lot.

Last week I bought him some popcorn. He refused to share it with his sisters so I told him I wanted the popcorn back. He got mad and threw the popcorn in my face. I spanked him. He hasn't spoken to me since.

Hal can be very nice, but it only lasts a few days and then he gets mean again. Please tell me how to get along with him. --- LOST

Dear Lost: Hal needs more help than you can give him. Please urge his mother to see that the lad gets counseling. His anti-social behavior is a symptom of a deeper problem.

Who calls the signals on how far petting should go—the boy or the girl? What are the ground rules for a safe session of romance? READ Ann Landers' booklet, 'Necking and Petting—What Are the Limits?' Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper, enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Hearnes Inks Bills Into Law

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren Hearnes signed into law Wednesday three bills extending the Medicaid program to those on welfare and the blind.

The annual state cost is estimated at $17,772,000, to be matched by $26,171,500 in federal funds.

The bills provide inpatient and outpatient hospital care, drugs, dental service, upgraded nursing home payments, x-ray and laboratory services, payments to those in mental hospitals and medical services for those eligible for aid if they could meet Missouri residence requirements.

Present for the signing was Sen. William J. Cason, D-Clinton, who sponsored the bills for the governor.

Altogether Hearnes signed 12 bills, including two to set up a new State Department of Community Affairs as he recommended. It will take over the functions of the present office of regional planning and make the state eligible for federal aid.

Also signed was a bill authorizing the state to accept federal grants for sewer districts and other water pollution control projects. Under this program the federal government provides 50 per cent of the funds, the state 25 per cent and the local units 25 per cent.

Other bills signed included measures to:

Increase workmen's compensation benefits for deafness—intended primarily to aid those who work around jet planes.

Establish a new State Division of Meat Inspection with about 50 new employees for the State Department of Agriculture.

Expand the powers of the State Real Estate Board over brokers and salesmen.

Create a state commission on the status of women to study discrimination against them and their employment opportunities.

VC Are Ambush Masters

By JOHN T. WHEELER . .
SAIGON (AP) — Millenniums ago a cave man crouched behind a boulder, stone ax in hand, and waited for his unwary enemy to trudge up the trail. The enemy arrived, the ax swished through the air, and the ambush was born.

Today in Vietnam the ambush has been raised to its highest level of cunning and effectiveness by the Communists, who otherwise might have been defeated long ago by U.S. fire power in conventional battle.

It is the enemy's most successful tactic by far and has given the Communists their most clear-cut victories over American and other allied troops.

Typical of these operations was a recent attack on a company of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division in the central highlands.

"We were just sitting on the trail, taking a break, you know, and then old Charlie opens up with those damned AK47 assault rifles, and, whammo, we were really in the hurt locker (trouble), a corporal recalled.

"In a way we were lucky. The Old Man (the company commander) wouldn't let us bunch up, even though we figured we were almost home free."

Lucky is a relative term in Vietnam. Half the men of the corporal's company were killed or wounded in three hours of savage fighting.

The infantry company probably had been trailed by the North Vietnamese for days. When the troops took a rest break before the final climb up a mountain, Charlie, as American troops have dubbed their foe, saw his chance, sent snipers up trees and positioned assault troops for attack. The sudden burst of fire caught the Americans sprawled on the ground. Many didn't move after the first volley. Courage and leadership got the Americans out of what could have been a disaster.

Ambushes can be in dozens of categories. Three classics involve the "U," the "Open U," and the "L."

In each case, an unwary adversary is allowed to walk into the kill zone where cross fire and terrain allow no place to hide, then is hit with everything available. Most of the damage in a well-executed ambush is done in the first five minutes.

The Americans use the ambush, too. One night south of the Da Nang air base a Marine unit on ambush patrol began hearing Vietnamese voices and suddenly sighted between 100 and 200 Viet Cong bent on attacking the base. The Marines ignored the axiom that discretion is sometimes the better part of valor and opened fire. The patrol was badly cut up, but the shots alerted the big base to the impending attack.

The Americans also have developed and refined a tactic called the artillery ambush. Long-range reconnaissance patrols filter through the jungle and mountains seeking out infiltrating units.

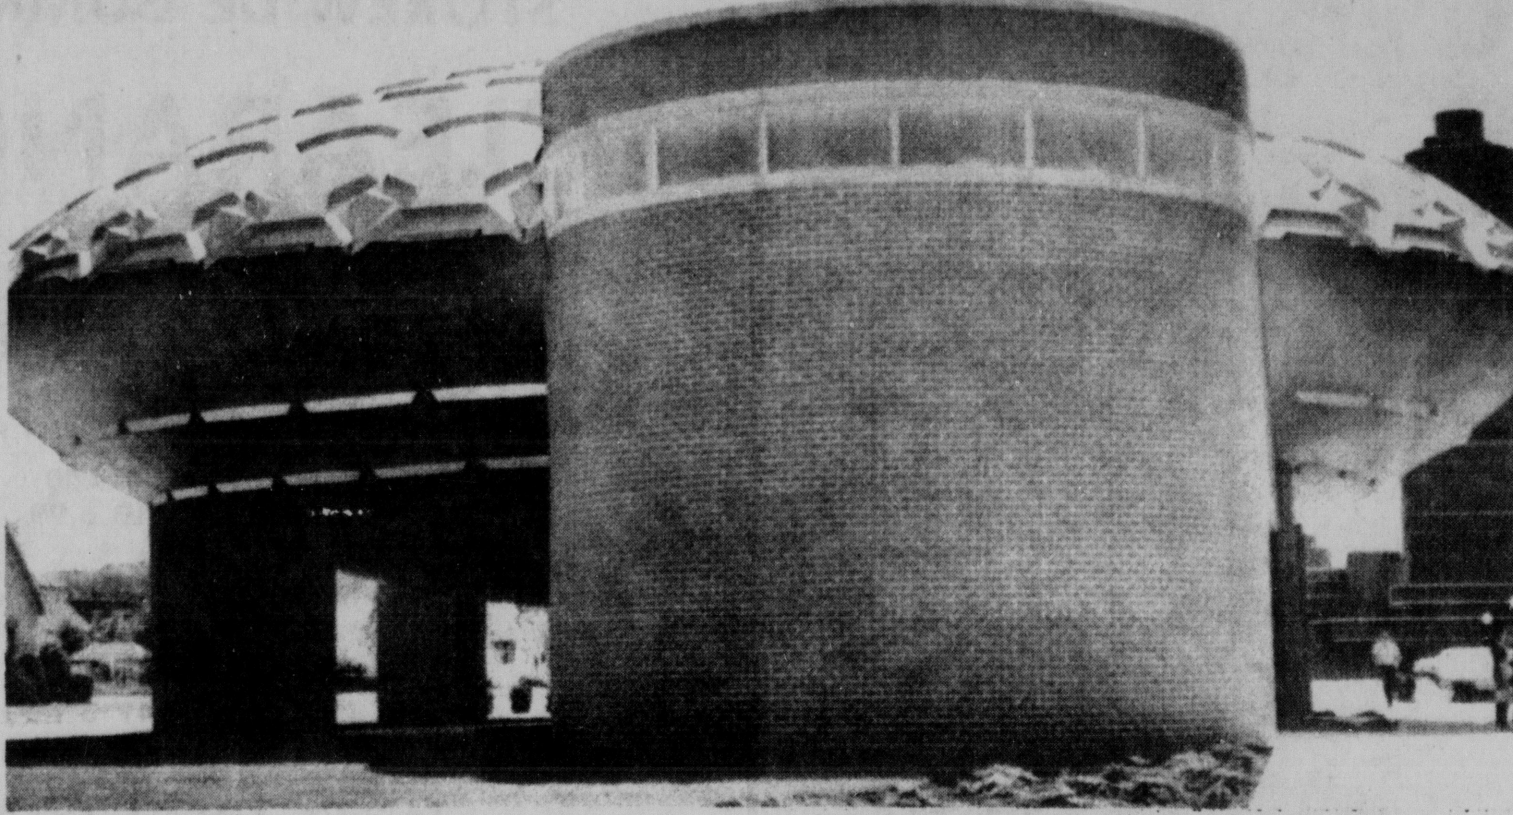

When they spot one, they radio for artillery, and from vantage points adjust the fire as the enemy tries to escape. The tactic sometimes works with devastating effect.

But the big ambushes always have been pulled by Charles. The Viet Cong and North Vietnamese still as a rule are able to pick the time and place for the big battles.

American troops generally try to pull back when hit by the hidden enemy and let the artillery and jet bombers work over the positions. Sometimes the ambush is too swift.

Elections Go On

Elections of a U.S. president cannot be disposed with, even in time of war. The Constitution requires that a president shall hold office "during the term of four years."

READY FOR DEDICATION ceremonies is the Johnson Wax Co., Rondelle Theater building which made first appearance at New York Worlds Fair in 1964-65. Structure has been rebuilt with modifications. Film, "To Be Alive," which was shown in the 90-foot-diameter building during the fair, will be shown in Racine, Wisc., home of the building, initially, at least.

SHARP SHOPPING

If You Want to Save Money, Bar Hubby from Market

By AILEEN SNODDY
Consumer Affairs Specialist
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Do you really want to save money on the family food bill each week? If you do don't send your husband or a son to shop for you. Men tend to be more impulsive in their food buying in supermarkets than women.

This fact comes through loud and clear in a number of supermarket surveys—both questionnaire-type and hidden-camera snooping.

A supermarket specialist also gives additional advice to the woman, or man, who would like to stretch the food dollar. Watching for sales is part of getting a good buy. However, the expert says many women spend more money on gas running around town to sales than they save on the purchase. He suggests for long-run savings that a shopper find a well-stocked store and stick with it.

You will save money during a year of grocery buying if you buy the advertised specials, buy fruits and vegetables in season, use a shopping list and compare store-brand and name-brand items.

A cook who learns to vary her menu with casseroles and tasty recipes using less expensive cuts of meat also saves money.

For the heavy coffee or tea drinking families the supermarket expert tosses out this bit of interesting news: It costs from two to four times more to make a cup of coffee from regular ground coffee than from instant. It also costs about 50 per cent more to brew a cup of tea from instant or tea bags than from bulk tea.

Keeping up with exterior decorating helps add value to a house. Couples planning to sell a home in a development or tract community should not neglect repainting or repairs such as drains, roofing and heating equipment. Possible buyers often turn down a house because they feel it will cost too much for them to put it back in shape again. Owners who do this in advance can make up expenses through tax savings and upping the sale price.

Paint, especially, makes a great difference in a home's appearance. The current trend is to nature colors to make low houses harmonize with their settings. Margaret Hutchinson, color stylist for Martin-Senour, reports the trend now is away from a white house with dark green trim, for example, and to a soft beige with possible white trim and accents of sumac red or olive green. Olive and moss greens take over from the strong raw greens once in vogue for exteriors.

Old brick and brownstone or Victorian houses she recommends painting charcoal, brown or navy with a white or pale tint trim. This lends dignity and conceals irregularities.

Use More Suspense

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — We've played it pretty tongue in cheek long enough: possibly it was even a little "too cute" last year.

To me as an actor, the most significant change in "The Man from U.N.C.L.E." will be in the attitude of the two leading characters, Napoleon Solo and Illya Kuryakin-Bob Vaughn and myself.

Now everyone on the show agrees it's time for a little less spoofing, a little more straight action-adventure. There will be more real danger and real intrigue.

Don't misunderstand. Solo and Kuryakin will still be a pretty cool team. But we'll be involved in a lot of more classical suspense than has been the case during the past year.

Producer Tony Spinner has worked up a few guidelines to achieve this classical suspense. For one thing, next year you'll find the villains are just as sharp as our heroes.

Motivation will be improved next season, too. The villains won't be sticking the blondes in torture chambers just for kicks.

And you won't find much sub-ubia in next season's show; we all see enough of this in our own homes.

REMEMBER THE SARONG, and the girl behind it who quickened male heartbeats in the 1940s? Back on view in foreign apparel again, this time an Arabie djellabah, is veteran actress Dorothy Lamour, shown here in the role of an Arab leader's daughter in a guest appearance on the television series "I Spy."

Food, Not Housing Big Problem

DETROIT (AP) — The massive task of providing riot refugees with food—and providing it fast—faced Mayor Jerome Cavanagh's Committee on Human Resources Development today. "Housing's not the problem," said Ralph Rosenfeld, an assistant to Director Philip Rutledge. "Food is."

Rosenfeld said a hotel taken over by the city for the purpose of finding places for refugees to live had attracted only eight families.

"Apparently they're moving in with friends," he said.

Officials could only guess that there are from 300 to 3,000 homeless.

Harried Detroit authorities could offer no breakdown now on destruction but said at least 1,500 businesses were looted and there were more than 1,500 to 3,000 damaged or destroyed buildings. Many fires had left an undetermined number of families, living in tenements above burned stores, homeless, officials said.

Offers of places to stay in neat, peaceful and nearly all-white neighborhoods went almost unheeded.

"We're all responsible for these things happening now," said Bush, a manager for the Detroit Edison Electric Co. "I think there are lots of good people in this area and this type of action may help improve their understanding and improve their acceptance of their own responsibilities."

Across the Detroit River police in Windsor reported many displaced persons had sought refuge in Canada. Many Negroes, police said, had crossed the river in boats and were staying with friends.

Border restrictions, eased for the first time since the rioting broke out, made it "easier to get out of Detroit than to get in," a U.S. immigration official said.

But back in the riot-ripped areas of the nation's fifth largest city, the problem was not so much finding a place to live. It was finding a way to live.

Incomplete estimates by the committee indicated thousands of people would be out of jobs after the mess is cleaned up — because their places of work have been destroyed, left as twisted steel girders growing as strange weeds from beds of rubble brick.

How to get the food to the uncounted thousands was a major problem. But where to get the food to give them was a bigger one.

A vanload of cold cereal had been donated by a breakfast food producer, the Interfaith Emergency Center which was established to meet the crisis, reported. A spokesman for the center said a dairy came through with 500 half-gallon containers of much needed milk. And the Wayne County AFL-CIO Council set up a motor transport pool to deliver the goods, the spokesman added.

Other than milk, the committee sought only staple foods. Food distribution centers were set up in churches throughout the city.

Many were giving out food on a meal-to-meal basis. Others were providing it on a daily basis. "Hoarding could become a problem," Rosenfeld said.

The committee also reported cases of price gouging on hard-to-get food. The boosts were 100 per cent in some cases, Rosenfeld said.

Milk was reported in one case as being sold for a dollar a quart.

DRYWELL NEAR COMPLETION—Work on the Commonwealth Edison Company's Dresden, Ill., nuclear power station this week finds the steel drywell, left, near completion. It is the third reactor at the location. The Dresden 2 is in the center, and the first is at the far right. The two twin reactors will generate 800,000 kilowatts in addition to the present 200,000-kilowatt plant. (UPI)

Office Conference Is Habit Forming

By HAL BOYLE.
NEW YORK (AP) — Every society has its rituals, and in the modern business office no ritual is more sacred than the staff conference.

Theoretically, a conference is held to solve problems or to consider new proposals to advance the firm. In fact, the conference at best is a way to pass the time between the morning coffee break and lunch; at its worst it serves as a torture session which enables the boss to torment his executives.

All conferences start in dramatic hopefulness. On the huge table before each seat is a shiny new memo pad and half a dozen freshly sharpened pencils.

The executives enter and greet each other as warily as professional boxers going into the ring. Who knows which will be carried hors de combat before the meeting is over?

If you have ever attended one of these office brain-drain sessions, you will find the following characters familiar:

The Eager Beaver—Inexperienced in office-jungle wiles, the junior executives leaps at the invitation of the boss to advance some new suggestions. He has half a dozen ready. But as he floats them up like toy balloons, the older executives sadistically shoot them down as if they were welding elephant guns. In 15 minutes the junior executive ages 15 years.

The Treasurer — No matter what is suggested, he objects, "That'll cost too much." If he had his way, they'd throw out typewriters and go back to goose-quill pens because goose-quill pens are less expensive.

The doodler—He appears to be busy scribbling down notes on what the other executives

Sedalian Defense Attorney

AN KHE, Vietnam (AP) — A U.S. Army general court-martial convicted today and sentenced to 10 years in prison a decorated sergeant on a charge of killing a Vietnamese prisoner. The sergeant testified he acted on orders from his commanding officers.

The officers have been charged with premeditated murder and will be tried later.

S. Sgt. Walter Griffen, 25, of East St. Louis, Ill., also was reduced in rank to recruit and ordered to forfeit all pay and allowances. He was convicted of premeditated murder.

The prosecution contended the order to kill the prisoner, suspected of being a Viet Cong, was illegal and called Griffen's action "a stain on the profession of arms."

The defense attorney, Capt. James Rice of Sedalia, Mo., argued that Griffen believed the order to be legal. He called Griffen a "soldier's soldier" trained "to obey the order first."

He noted that Griffen, who has been in the Army eight years, holds the Bronze Star and the Purple Heart and has been recommended for the Silver Star.

The officers' trial is scheduled for later this week. They are Capt. Paul C. Ogg of Greenfield, Ohio, and 1st Lt. John L. Patrick Jr., of Wytheville, Va.

PRESIDENT Johnson Wednesday made a grave appeal to American Youths to respect the law as he spoke in the White House Rose Garden to nearly 100 young delegates to Boys Nation, an annual exercise in government sponsored by the American Legion. With the President is Alan Keys, 16, of San Antonio, Tex., who was elected president of Boys Nation.

Few Contributions For Black Power

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — A general attitude of enmity toward the so-called white power structure did not prevent the recent National Conference on Black Power from seeking support of some of the nation's largest corporations.

Among those solicited for funds and delegates were U.S. Steel, Humble Oil and Mobil Oil. None contributed, nor did the other seven companies that make up the 10 largest industrial corporations in America.

The 50 corporations that Dr. Nathan Wright, chairman of the Newark conference, claims did contribute apparently did so only to a small extent. Contacted this week, Wright said the maximum contribution was $250 and the minimum $25.

Such sums are small for organizations which included, as Wright said, "some of the largest corporations in the world." Based on his figures, the total contribution could have been more than $12,275.

Wright declines to identify the companies because "we don't want to give the names of any white people who contributed to Black Power." To do so, he said, "would put them in the position of defending Black Power, and we do not wish to put whites in the position of doing so."

The reason? "It would be offensive to black people to have whites defending Black Power."

He did say that corporations were not singled out for donations but were merely part of a vast campaign for funds and delegates from organizations such as police departments, antipoverty units and self-styled revolutionary groups.

Though Wright declined to name the companies which contributed, some obvious possibilities were contacted by this reporter.

Prudential Life Insurance, based in Newark, said it had received a letter seeking funds but that it had declined to contribute largely on the basis of the meeting being segregated.

"We discussed it and decided we wouldn't make a contribution," a spokesman said.

General Electric received a request for funds, but not through its executive office. The mimeographed invitation came to a community relations man and asked for a $250 contribution.

GE did not make a contribution, although the matter never came before a decision-making body in time for action to be taken because the community relations man failed to forward the invitation.

Others in the Big Ten, such as International Business Machines, Ford, General Motors and Texaco were neither solicited nor did they contribute, spokesmen for these companies said.

Just because none of the top 10 industrial corporations supported the conference does not diminish Wright's claim of assistance from industry. Hundreds more corporations can be called major or giant.

On the other hand, it must be said that those companies that declined to contribute or to send a delegate may not have done so out of animosity toward Black Power. Most corporations have strict policies on acceptable charities.

Urges Lowered Retirement Age

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Walter P. Reuther, United Auto Workers president, today urged congressional approval of a lowered retirement age with no loss in benefits.

Reuther made his recommendations in remarks prepared for a U.S. Senate subcommittee hearing in Ann Arbor on retirement.

The union president urged lowering retirement ages from 65 to 62 for men and to 60 for women.

He said the UAW's policy on early retirement has created many new job opportunities for younger men with growing families while allowing many older employees to retire with some measure of security.

Japanese women figure they have either too much or too little in those areas that draw stares and whistles from the opposite sex. And a booming business is catering to their desires to add and detract in crucial portions of the anatomy. Egos and upper torsos are being inflated by injections of silicone. Slanted eyelids, traditional mark of the Oriental, are sliced away in a relatively simple operation to give a round-eyed, Western look. Beauty clinic machines such as the one above are designed to trim down ankles and calves. And the girls seem perfectly willing to endure any amount of "torture" as shown at right, to win the favor of Japanese men and emerge victorious in their battle of the bulge.

Strategic Shift in the Orient

On the march against misplaced pounds are the young women of Japan, driven by men who are under the influence of a western culture that reveres trim ankles and bounteous bustlines, two Oriental weaknesses.

Onward and upward toward slimmer ankles and firm legs, this young hopeful struggles under an apparatus at the "Venus Club" in Nagoya, Japan.

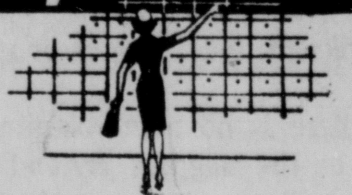

FORE-WARNED motorists are expected to be on the ball on their approach to this section of road that runs between holes of the Westhampton Country Club at Southampton, L.I. For the protection of motorists as well as pedestrians, another sign reading "fore" might be in order.

Yanks Are Prime Targets in Hong Kong

EDITOR'S NOTE: Tom Tiede recently completed his fourth reporting tour of Vietnam which included bouts of R and R in Hong Kong.)

By TOM TIEDE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — There is a definite possibility that Hong Kong, one of the favorite rest areas for combat-weary Vietnam GIs soon may be placed "off limits."

Continuing unrest in the British Crown colony has endangered the safety of fur-loughing servicemen and the Department of Defense is "naturally watching the developments there very closely."

At present, DOD refuses to speculate on any such action, claiming that loose opinions can serve no useful purpose and only aggravate an already sticky situation.

But there is little doubt officials are worried.

And they should be. As many as 5,000 GIs are on the island on a given day and even out of uniform they stick out for the native masses like tempting targets.

According to official guess, no soldiers have been injured in any of the riots thus far. But hundreds of verbal threats have been recorded and it is known that several troopers have engaged in brief, bloodless scuffles with Chinese activists.

The odds are against such a safety record continuing for long. Hong Kong is too crowded (more than three million people) and U.S. military personnel are too vulnerable.

"One of these days," says a Pentagon pessimist, "some trooper is going to get shot between his hotel and the bar. Or at least he'll get pounced on by the Red Guards and have the hell kicked out of him."

"And when that happens, we'll have to shut the doors to the place. It's bad enough taking risks in Vietnam . . . but in Hong Kong, on vacation, it's absurd."

Presumably, nothing short of a U.S. casualty would prompt American withdrawal from the Oriental spa. Such an action would be a major setback for everyone concerned . . . including in many respects the Chinese Communists themselves.

The United States would lose both face and influence in one of the few remaining bridges between the Western and Chicom societies. So would the British who thus would be according to Red pressures and assuming a distasteful subservient role.

The individual GIs would also lose heavily. A five-day leave in Hong Kong's glitter is about the only enjoyable thing that evolves from the Southeast Asian war.

But the biggest losers in any island quarantine would be the Chinese, either Communist or not. The reason is that they have a sizable financial stake in the American military tourists, some four million hard green dollars a month.

'It's bad enough taking risks in Vietnam . . . but in Hong Kong, on vacation, it's absurd.'

This money is one reason so many HK citizens are hoping the demonstrations will abate before irreparable damage is done. The prospect of losing the trade has not endeared the Red Guard activists to these residents.

According to reports from the colony many of the natives are even openly offering aid and comfort to the U.S. visitors. Humanitarianism has little to do with their actions, of course. It's simply that an attack on an American soldier is bad for business.

GIs are being snatched from the streets by shop owners who insist that safety awaits inside. Meanwhile, the owners suggest, why not glance over the merchandise?

All the commercial establishments are straining, of course, to continue business as usual. Souvenir shop windows still advertise welcome to "Brave Yanks." American rockabilly still blurs from hotel lobbies. Tailors still churn out $32.50 tuxedos.

And, to date anyway, no service has been curtailed. A soldier can still buy an illegal jade necklace made in Peking. The Peking duck is still succulent. So, they say, are the Peking prostitutes who are so bold they knock on hotel doors at random.

All this, however, is largely window dressing.

The situation is potentially disastrous, and everyone knows it. Commanders in Vietnam are privately discouraging troop trips to Hong Kong. Navy ships docked in Repulse Bay are often crammed with sailors not allowed to venture ashore.

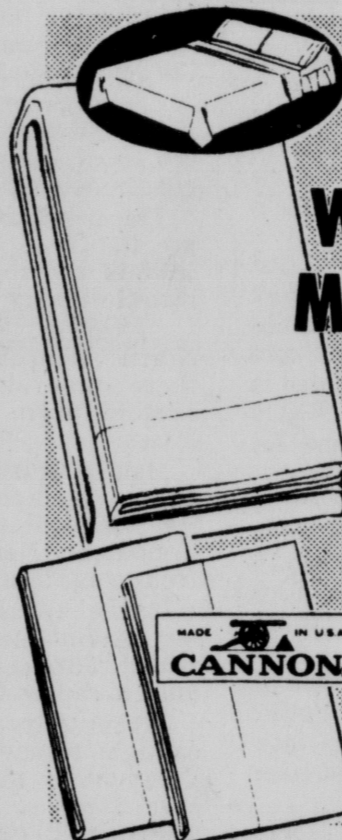

In short, GI tourism has all but had it.

"It's just a bad place now," says a Vietnam veteran who returned home by way of the island. "I spent 12 months in Saigon and it didn't faze me. I spent 48 hours in Hong Kong and I was never so damned frightened in my life."

If you have a serviceman in your family, he'd be delighted with the anthology of Tom Tiede's dispatches, "YOUR MEN AT WAR." We have an effect, but what is its cause?
Poverty, ghettos, civil rights and humidity are among reasons given for the violence.
Something seems to be wrong here about blaming poverty and the disadvantaged Negroes. Detroit has no ghettos such as found in cities like Newark, Los Angeles or New York's Harlem, scenes of some of the worst racial rioting.
We are informed that the Detroit situation is unique in that white families mingle with Negro families, live in harmony, are not faced with high unemployment. Then why the rebellion there and disastrous consequences necessitating calling out of federal troops?
Searching for a scapegoat, government spokesmen and other opinionated wizards are blaming liberal politicians or party opposites, the rabble-rousing communists, Negro racism, black power or what have you.
But there is no point blaming all the trouble on the Negroes. By and large the rank and file are unsympathetic to the communist-inspired theory that black and white cannot share social life together in this country; that one or the other must be obliterated.
All this is inflammatory nonsense uttered by a minority.

Race Riots Help Negro Critics

DREW PEARSON
WASHINGTON—What the United States needs today is a giant Marshall Plan to rebuild the ghettos of our big cities and rehabilitate their people.
We spent several billion rebuilding the ruined cities of Europe after World War II and putting both our allies and our enemies back on their feet. It was a good investment. We still spend about three billion a year to battle communism around the world.
Meanwhile, we have Negro insurrection in our major cities with effects worse than communism, all because we refuse to remedy the basic causes—poverty, slum housing, overcrowded schools, inadequate teachers, alcoholism, and crime. These are conditions which the communist countries that we oppose abroad have remedied but which get progressively worse in America.
The chances of getting a Marshall Plan for America through Congress, however, are almost nil—for two reasons:
1—The violence of the American Negro which has turned public sentiment against him. He is his own worst enemy. The more he wreaks vengeance on the white man, the more the white man, who is in a majority, turns against him.
2—The make-up of Congress which is elected by white, rural America, with the small towns holding control of the key committee chairmanships. Men like Rep. William Colmer of Mississippi, who heads the Rules Committee and can control which legislations reaches the house for a vote, is not going to help push a Marshall Plan for America. As a result of riots, more and more northern congressmen are now lining up with the South.
—Slapping Down The Cities—
Both points are illustrated by what happened in Congress last week. While Negro violence spread from Newark, to Plainfield, to Detroit, the House of Representatives laughed down a relatively small appropriation of $20,000,000 to fight slum rats, and earlier cut the model cities program in half while killing rent subsidies altogether.
In contrast, it voted $750,000 last week to study a canal between Pittsburgh and Lake Erie which almost no one except Rep. Mike Kirwan, D-Ohio, wants; earlier voted $10,000,000 to build a fancy fish aquarium for the District of Columbia which few people wanted; has voted many millions over the years to clean water hyacinths out of southern waterways because they clog the propellers of pleasure boats; allocated $20,000,000 to switch a food and drug laboratory from Beltsville, Md., to Madison, Wis., and earlier voted money for a cottonweek control station in the Mississippi district of Rep. Jamie Whitten and a peanut laboratory in Sen. Dick Russell's state of Georgia because these two powerful rural solons held up the farm bill appropriation until they got what they wanted.

In San Francisco a Negro leader of the NAACP says: "These riots don't make any sense. Riots aren't destroying the ghettos, they are destroying us because they don't do a thing to eliminate unemployment, bad housing and bad schools."
And, we might add, they don't eliminate bad people responsible for this riotous insanity.
Perhaps insanity is not the word. What this country is experiencing is anarchy. What else can purposeless rioting be called other than anarchy by persons expressing avowed hostility to government and its laws.
We hear politicians now demanding legislation to stop the rioting, the looting, the murders on the civilian front. This sounds like the very essence of panic or a desire to be heard up stage as a crusader. Bosh!
Do they mean to tell us we don't have sufficient laws on the books to deal with rioting, murder, looting and anarchy?
Either we are going to have law enforcement in this land or else surrender ourselves to the anarchists.
Whether these rascals are black or white—and there are many whites mixed up in this mess—they need to be called to account and face the extreme penalties already provided for in our books of laws.
We don't need more laws. We need to enforce what we have.

Ho Strategy: Fight Yanks One Place, Seize Another

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA)
It is not by accident the "military war" in Vietnam is going well for us and the pacification program faltering.
The Mao Tse-tung, Ho Chi Minh strategy of guerrilla warfare aims at this very effect.
Not that Mao and Ho want to lose militarily. But the aim of Communist military strategy is not to win battles.
The primary objective of Communist mainline troops is to tie down the major enemy military units (ours) so that the Communist political and guerrilla cadres can sabotage the enemy pacification program (ours) and strengthen their own political underground rule free of interference.
One of Mao's favorite military maxims can be roughly paraphrased as: If you want to occupy and rule A, draw the enemy's troops off into a fight at B. Then they'll not be around to bother you at A.
The second objective of Ho's major forces is to grind down the enemy mainline forces (ours) in endless frustrating campaigns, so that in the end the price being paid seems unbearable for the results achieved.
Ho's troops are successfully drawing major U.S. units from the main population areas of South Vietnam.
Therefore, not enough U.S. and Vietnamese troops can be spared to guard the pacification teams so that they can get about their work of creating viable people-backed local governments in rural South Vietnam.
The pacification teams and the local Vietnamese leaders are the No. 1 Viet Cong targets. If these local teams and leaders are repeatedly destroyed and do not recover, the Mao-Ho theory holds that we cannot win the war.
Of course, Ho pays a price for this kind of fighting in North Vietnamese and Viet Cong dead and wounded. But there's no evidence that he will run out of troops in the foreseeable future. By Communist reckoning, Ho can afford the losses.

Mao in China lost 90 per cent of his men in one lengthy series of defeats in his long war to take over mainland China. He lost more than half his effectives in another series of campaigns. Neither of these reverses kept his insurgency from continuing.
In the war against Japan, Mao's troops consistently lost battles. But they kept the Japanese troops tied down on the roads, railroads, cities and major towns. This left the Communist cadres free to organize in the countryside.
Japanese troops made continual forays. They were strong enough to move whenever and wherever they chose. The Communists melted away. But the Japanese couldn't be everywhere at once. Where they weren't, the Communists moved in. When the Japanese came, the Communist forces moved someplace else. But the Red underground stayed put under the surface.
If Ho's troops can keep us busy at the DMZ, along the Cambodian border and in other isolated spots, their task of working on the people in the heavily populated areas is much easier.
But Ho's strategy can be used against him. He is sucked in by the same tactics he applies so successfully against us.

Waldemar von Zedtwitz of New York has been one of the best bridge players in the world for 40 years. You can't be a great bridge player and be superstitious but Waldy has an almost superstitious feeling about the diamond suit. If you pin him down, he will admit that he tends to bid doubtful diamond slams because he is lucky with them.
Of course, Waldy does a lot about making his own luck. He sat South and while the final contract of six diamonds was optimistic indeed, we can't find that he overbid at all. His partner did hold ace-king-ace but his two-club response showed a good hand and we feel that North's rebid to three diamonds was a decidedly poor choice. With 4-3-3-3 distribution he should merely have bid two no-trump over two hearts.
Waldy looked over dummy carefully and, with Waldy, that means very carefully. He saw that he needed a lot of luck to make his contract but that it would be a cinch if East held the king at the top of a three-card heart suit. Then he looked about for other winning possibilities and finally came up with a successful play.

He won the first trick with the king of spades and led out his five of hearts. East overtook his partner's seven with the nine and led the suit right back in an effort to make Waldy think that West held the king but Waldy had planned to finesse in any event and did finesse.
Then Waldy played two rounds of trumps and the ace of hearts. West could do nothing except discard. Waldy ruffed his last heart. He cashed dummy's ace of spades, ruffed a spade, drew the last trump and claimed the rest of the tricks.
Lucky, but try to make the hand any other way!

Rioting Is Up To Neck In Politics

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Before it could even be brought under control the Detroit riot was up to the neck in politics, looking straight at the 1968 presidential campaign.
It's a good guess we will be hearing about it until next year's elections.
Republican leaders, with former President Dwight D. Eisenhower approving, warned that anarchy is approaching and blamed President Johnson for failing to "recognize the problem."
This attack was made Monday while Johnson—at the request of Michigan Gov. George Romney, who may be Johnson's Republican rival in the 1968 race, was arranging to send U.S. troops into blazing Detroit.
The whole story of what happened Monday—and why Johnson took so long before permitting the troops to be used in the riot center—hasn't been told. It took many hours.
The New York Times reported that at first "some officials in Washington suspected that the governor was primarily seeking insurance against a political setback in the riots by quickly associating the President with his own law enforcement efforts." them.
But Johnson for his part, in his public explanation of the troop use to the nation around midnight Monday, repeatedly made it clear Romney couldn't control the riot and that the reason the troops were being sent was because Romney said he needed them and couldn't do without.
Romney, who has spent a good deal of 1967 scouting around the country to sound out sentiment about his chances next year, seemed certain until this riot to try for the Republican nomination.
But Detroit was only the beginning of his trouble since riots subsequently swept one Michigan city after another.
All this will probably be used against him within his own party before nomination time comes. And if he gets the nomination, judging from the pains Johnson took to tell the country Romney couldn't make the grade with just one riot, the one in Detroit, the Democrats are a cinch to use it against him.
But the Republicans turned Detroit into a political football before Johnson had a chance to picture Romney as helpless. They issued their statement of condemnation against Johnson hours before he went on the air with his explanation.
In fact, they sought to blame the Democrats indirectly for the riots, saying "widespread rioting and violent civil disorder have grown to a national crisis since the present administration took office."
And at one point they declared, "We have tragic proof of the national nature of the crisis in the act of the President in sending in federal troops after one of our greatest cities has suffered incredible damage to the entire fabric of the community."
They didn't say a word about Romney's inability to handle the situation, even with the entire Michigan National Guard at his disposal.
And they wondered aloud how many more riots there must be before the President "will support or approve legislation to restore order and protect the people of this country."
But Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, Republican Senate leader who sought to explain the party statement to reporters, ducked and ran when they began to quiz him about some of the charges.
All this started a shouting match in Congress where Democrats called the Republicans "irresponsible and ridiculous," urged them to act on proposals Johnson has already made for combating crime, blamed some of them for voting against "every program of relief and rehabilitation for our cities," and even accused some of them of laughing at a rat-control bill.
So the American riots, which should require every bit of thought and energy of both sides, are drowned in politics before anyone suggests a solution.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

Q - Our daughter graduated from college last year and has been working for some months. Since she still lives at home with us can we claim her as a dependent?
A - It depends on several factors. To be eligible to claim her as a dependent you must have provided more than half her support for the year. However, if she earned $600 or more during the year then she must either be under 19 at the end of the year or a full-time student for some part of each of five months for her to still qualify as a dependent.
Q - Is my wife's Social Security number required on a joint return? Practically all of our income comes from my salary.
A - In some cases your wife's Social Security number would not be required on your joint return. Her number would be required, however, if any of the following conditions are met:
1-She had wages subject to withholding
2-She had income subject to self-employment tax
She had separate income from dividends or interest of $10 or more
If any of these conditions apply, a joint return without her Social Security number will hold up the processing of the return. You will then have to be contacted to obtain the missing information. This naturally delays processing and the issuance of any refund you have coming.
Q - What figure on my W-2 should I report as income?
A - In most cases it is the amount identified as "wages paid subject to withholding in 1966." If there is also a figure in the space identified as "other compensation paid in 1966," then the two figures must be added and the total reported on your return as income from that employer.
Don't forget that if you had more than one employer in 1966 a W-2 is required for each job.
...Q—My son, 3, has alopecia areata. What is the cause and how long will it take for his hair to grow back?
...A—The cause of spotty loss of hair (alopecia areata) is unknown but it is seen most often in highly nervous children with finicky appetites. Before a diagnosis of this disease is made it is necessary to rule out ringworm of the scalp. The loss of hair is permanent in a small percentage of children but in most it persists for several months and then the hair gradually returns. The treatment is unsatisfactory. When the hair comes back it does so spontaneously and not because of any treatment used.

NEW YORK TIMES: Columbia's Cigarette Filter.—Columbia has acquired rights to a new cigarette filter which sharply reduces inhaled tar and nicotine. The filter will be made available to all cigarette companies, and the expressed hope is that the health hazards will be significantly reduced.
Some difficult questions arise from the Columbia announcement: Will news of this "safe" filter only serve to increase smoking? Will the fact that Columbia University endorses the filter induce young people to start smoking and encourage steady smokers to continue? Should any university profit from a device that probably will have this result? Is this not an anomalous position for any educational institution to be in?
Now, evidently on the premise that the educational campaign against cigarettes is hopeless, one of the great educational institutions in the country dramatically announces nothing less than its "sponsorship" of a filter that, while it may reduce the health hazard, will probably increase the smoking habit.
The Columbia filter (as it was dubbed within 24 hours) could be a research breakthrough. But it does not diminish the obligation of government to educate the people—including college students—to the dangers of smoking cigarettes.

Hey! You With the Knobby Knees

... thinking about a miniskirt?

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Ever since there have been more fashion disasters than traffic can bare. There's a continuous comedy of errors on every city street.

There's nothing wrong with the short skirt in itself. What is wrong is that too many women think "short skirt" and not "total look." And too many others hike the hemline above knees as plump and dimpled as a baby's derriere.

Another offender against good taste is the gal who doesn't have the sense to take off her high heels when she puts on her short skirt. She looks like a member of the oldest service industry.

To wear a miniskirt successfully you must team it with mini-type underpinnings and have a mini-type figure to boot.

HELEN HENNESSY'S
BOUTIQUE

Designers are so serious

WHOOPS, MY DEAR! Everything, but everything is showing.

about the unbroken line from hem to toe that many have designed their own matching hose or boots to wear with their short skirts. Others have come up with co-ordinated pants to wear under the little skirt.

Lingerie manufacturers offer panty hose and minislips. Yet every day one sees someone in a short skirt wearing ordinary hosiery where the stocking welt shows below her hem. Then there's the woman who dons a regular-length slip, pulls it up under her bosom adding bulk to an already thick midriff. And when the slip slides down (and it will) there's a full inch of underpinning showing below the skirt.

Would you believe long-leg pantie girdles with short skirts? It happens. In the New York subways you can look across the aisle and see two or three sets of pale beige knees, topped by gleaming steel garter grips, topped in turn by an inch of white girdle and then a bright, short skirt.

...O.K., think,
but don't wear one

There's no need to be a sheep where fashion is concerned. If you haven't got good legs and a good figure, forget the miniskirt. It doesn't make sense to point up your weak spots. Although you are wearing a new fashion, you will look silly, not chic.

But if you have the figure to carry off the miniskirt, do it properly. If a slip is necessary, wear one designed for short hemlines. Otherwise wear tights that give you a lean, leggy look with no unbroken line between leg and hem, preferably in the color of your skirt.

The newest fashions for fall are in dark shades with stockings and shoes in the same colors. The stockings are opaque, the short hem doesn't break the silhouette and the look is a good one.

But if you insist on making every mistake in the fashion book by wearing last year's underpinnings with this year's clothes, for heaven's sake don't bend over. Walk straight as a ramrod and have a gentleman along at all times to pick up anything you may drop.

If you don't, you'll have a starring role in the bad play that's going on in the fashion world today.

Connery Must Be Replaced

By BON THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
LONDON (AP) — Q. Whither James Bond?

A. He is headed for more sex-charged film adventures—with-out Sean Connery.

The word comes from A. R. "Cubby" Broccoli, who with coproducer Harry Saltzman discovered the unparalleled gold in the supergimmicked spy travesties, from "Dr. No" to "You Only Live Twice." The disaffection of star Connery from the series is well known and apparently final. The Broccoli-Saltzman decision is apparently final, too.

"We are going ahead with the series without Sean," says Broccoli. "We don't want an actor to appear in films he is not enthusiastic about. Even if Sean changes his mind, that will not affect our decision. We are looking for a new James Bond."

Sour grapes, anyone? Not for Broccoli, a big, friendly bear of a man who has nothing but pleasant thoughts about the entire 007 caper. The films have made him many times a millionaire, and he is likely to glean more millions from the Ian Fleming stories. He and Saltzman own seven more of the novels. "Our next one will be 'On Her Majesty's Secret Service,' and we will shoot it in Switzerland, England and France," said the producer. "We won't start filming until August of 1968, so that will give us plenty of time to find a new James Bond."

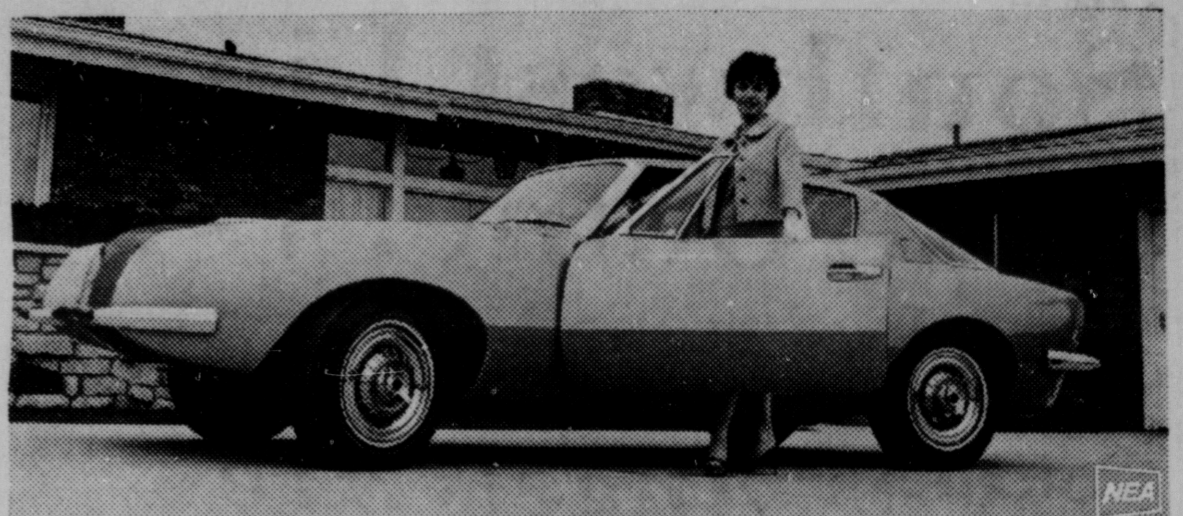

"I think the audience is ready for a new one. Sean Connery has been a great James Bond, but it is time to move on."

"We're getting lots of applicants; in fact, I get phone calls every day. Just yesterday I heard from a man in Vancouver who looks pretty good. One thing is certain: Whoever he is, he'll have to be British. That is a necessity."

The public already has been confused by a proliferation of Bonds; Columbia's "Casino Royale" featured the spy in a variety of guises, none of them Connery. Yet the fifth of the official Bond entries, "You Only Live Twice," followed soon after and is doing the usual smash business.

"Casino Royale" worried me," Broccoli admitted. "I became concerned when a friend of mine, a New York advertising man who should be in the know, complained to me about the picture, thinking we had made it. I think the public must have been confused. But anyway, the new one seems to be doing equal business to our previous record holder, 'Thunderball,' which brought in $50 million worldwide."

Buys The Queen Mary

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The Queen Mary, venerable lady of the Atlantic, will find a permanent home on the waterfront of Long Beach and rival Disneyland as a lure for tourists.

The ocean liner, now too old for travel as a luxury ship, is being sold by Cunard Lines to the city of Long Beach for $3,444,000.

The city, whose bid topped 17 others, plans to spend $3 million to $5 million to make the Queen Mary into a maritime museum, hotel and convention center.

The news Wednesday from London, where the sale was announced, created excitement among Long Beach citizens.

"She'll rival Disneyland," said Mayor Edwin Wde.

He predicted that the luxury liner will attract two million persons a year. She will rival Disneyland, Marineland and other Southern California facilities as a tourist attraction," he said.

Wade, discounting comment in London that the proud old ship would become "an unfair spectacle," said it would retain its dignity in Long Beach harbor.

The oil-rich California city of 380,000 beat out New York City, an Atlanta, Ga., group and scrap dealers all over the world for the ship that carried millions of persons across the Atlantic with a stint as transporter of 765,000 allied troops during World War II.

New York's plan was to use the Queen Mary as a high school.

The purchase money promised by Long Beach comes from a tideland oil revenue fund which may be used only for shoreline improvements. Other oil funds have financed a massive marina and other facilities.

The Queen Mary can accommodate 1,957 passengers and 1,200 crew members. There are 27 public rooms.

Southwest Lions Lose Game, 7-4

Second Night Of Tourney

By D. Kelly Scruton
Sports Editor

The second night of first round games in the Missouri State Non-Pro Baseball Tournament at Liberty Park, turned in two good contests for the fans. The opener was a 3-0 game won by the Jefferson City Pepsi Bears over the Nevada All-Stars; the second a Butler Comet win of 7 to 4 over the Sedalia Southwest Lions.

The victory pits the Jefferson City and Butler teams against each other on July 30, and the two losers Nevada and Sedalia in the consolation bracket the same night.

Thursday night the Jefferson City Red Birds play the Kirksville Merchants at 6:30; and at 8 p.m. McBain Maulers vs Warsaw Merchants. Friday night completes the first round games when Nixa Colts meet the Lawson Merchants at 6:30 p.m. and the Art Gaines Baseball School of Hunnewell meet the Sutherland Lumber Co., at 8 p.m.

Wednesday First Game

The opening game Wednesday night was a pitchers battle throughout the game with the exception of the bottom of the sixth inning when the Pepsi Bears staged a three run rally.

In this inning after Eddie Muller lined out to left field, Mike Moody singled to center, and he was followed by Charlie Crede who smashed a long drive which topped the left field fence by 35-feet for a circuit run moving Moody ahead of him. Mike Reed took a free trip to first on four balls, stole second. Donnie Sommers grounded out to third. Steve Slaughter hit a drive into right field for a single and Reed crossed home plate. Mike Ridenhour struck out to end the inning. Three runs, three hits and no errors.

The inning was all the Jefferson City team needed, but it was a struggle for both clubs to the final out in the ninth.

Second Game

With the exception of the first inning of the Sedalia Southwest Lions and Butler Comets, the game was a battle on out. The first inning was the difference for the Butler team as it scored six runs in that square.

The Sedalia players appeared a little more than suffering from stage fright as the game got underway and Butler made hay while they had the opportunity.

Opening the inning Jerrel Allen hit a three base hit to deep center; Dick Harrison was safe on the error of pitcher Jim Reistad. Dale Smith was safe on a fielders choice and the bases were loaded. Dale Cooper stepped to the plate and rapped out a double in center field scoring Allen and Harrison, with Smith holding up at third. Geo. Bruto singled to right field scoring Smith. Ed Herrman was at the plate Bruto stole second, an error by Reistad throwing to Mike Maples resulted in Cooper scoring, and Bruto to third. Herrman walked. As Jerry Gray walked to the plate, Manager Salty Schumaker called time and switched pitchers, Steve Lewis taking over. Herrman stole second. Gray and Jim Kaufman struck out. Richard Wood walked filling the bases again. Allen hit to John Johnson who let the ball go through him for an error. Bruto and Herrman scored. Allen stole second. Harrison popped to the third basemen. Six runs, three hits and three errors.

The Lions scored one in the second. After Larry Bechtel popped to center, Mike Maples grounded to second. Gary Eck singled to right field. Steve Lewis hit a long ball to right center for a double scoring Eck. Tom Hudson struck out. One run, two hits, no errors.

A three run came in the bottom of the fifth for the locals. Eck struck out, but was safe on a passed ball. Lewis lined to the short stop. Hudson flied out to right field. Leon Hall hit for two bases into center field scoring Eck. John Johnson singled to left field scoring Hall. Ray Murray rapped a three base hit to deep right scoring Johnson. Steve Young grounded out to short

Angels Are Outsmarted

Mike Andrews had an idea and also a solution in case it didn't work. Happily it worked.

There were men on first and third with two out in the Boston sixth inning Wednesday night with Andrews at the plate. He bunted.

By the time surprised California third baseman Woody Held fielded the ball Andrews was on first and Reggie Smith was home with the third run of the inning to tie the game 4-4.

The Red Sox went on to score three more times in the inning for a 7-4 lead en route to a 9-6 victory.

"It was my own idea," Andrews said. "If I would have popped it up, I would have just kept running."

stop. Three runs, three hits, no errors.

Butler in the top of the sixth tallied one when Herrman singled dropping a pop fly behind second. Ron Brewster and Kaufman struck out and when Young tried to pick Herrman off at second he threw bad, and the centerfield juggled the ball and Herrman scored. Jim West flied out to center. One run, one hit and two errors.

While Andrews was outsmarting the Angels, Washington was beating Kansas City 6-3 and New York split with Minnesota, winning the first game 6-1 and losing the nightcap 3-2 in 18 innings.

The Cleveland at Chicago game was rained out. Detroit and Baltimore were not scheduled.

In the National League, New York trounced San Francisco 11-5, Houston nipped Philadelphia 3-2, St. Louis topped Chicago 4-2, Pittsburgh beat Los Angeles 4-2 and Cincinnati walloped Atlanta 7-1. The second Cincinnati-Atlanta game was rained out.

Asked if he was thinking about bunting with Andrews up, Boston Manager Dick Williams replied:

"No. He caught me just like he caught Woody Held."

The Red Sox, who stayed ahead of the Angels in second place with the victory which snapped California's seven-game winning streak, got their first run in the seventh on Tony Conigliaro's double and George Scott's triple.

Joe Foy followed the bunt with an infield hit, loading the bases, and Carl Yastrzemski doubled in three runs.

Marcelino Lopez then relieved George Brunet and was greeted by Rico Petrocelli's sacrifice fly. Smith singled and pinch hitter Norm Siebern got aboard on an error before pinch hitter Dalton Jones flied out, setting up Andrews' bunt.

Boston, which scored one run in the fourth, added insurance tallies in the eighth on consecutive homers by Conigliaro and Scott.

Jose Cardenal and Woody Held each drove in two runs for California—Cardenal with a homer and single and Held with a homer.

Joe Pepitone drove in three runs with two homers and Steve Whitaker two with a homer and single in New York's first game victory. Minnesota got its run on Bob Allison's leadoff homer in the first inning.

The nightcap threatened to go forever until Rod Carew walked in the 18th inning, stole second, went to third on Yankee catcher Jake Gibbs' bad throw and scored on Rich Rollins' infield hit.

Bill Monbouquette pitched nine innings in relief for the Yanks, retiring the first 21 batters he faced before being lifted for a pinch hitter in the 16th.

Jim Merritt went the first 14 innings for the Twins.

Red Wing, LeRoy's Are Deadlocked

Red Wing Pest Control moved up in the Sedalia Rod and Gun Club Wednesday night Trap Shooting League and tied LeRoy's Steak House, both holding total 980 points.

Cash Hardware shot itself into second spot with a 979 followed by Vic's Package Store, 977; Norman's Plaster Co, 974; Mills Quik Chek and S and M Athletics tied for fifth with 973; Ray's Skelly Service, 972; Dugan's Paint Store, 970; Farmers and Merchants Bank, 969; Cole and Cooper Electric, 962; St. Fair Restaurant, 956; and Central Mo. Real Estate, 951.

High team score for the night was Vic's Package Store with 113.

No perfect scores were accounted for but four shooters hit 24 rocks one off the perfect mark. They were Bernard Dove and Dick Sole of Green Ridge; Ed. Schneider of Warsaw and Dick Cole of Sedalia.

Successful Steal

Cards' Lou Brock (20) steals second in the first inning of the Cards-Cubs game in St. Louis. Cubs' catcher Randy Hundley threw to shortstop Don Kessinger (11), but Brock was safe with a stolen base. The Cards defeated the Cubs 4-2. (UPI)

Minnesota Golf Classic Opens

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The $100,000 Minnesota Golf Classic opens today with defending champ Bobby Nichols and PGA champ Don January favored to top the field of 144 pros on the new Hazeltine golf course.

First-prize money for the 72-hole event is the 7,220-yard course is $20,000.

Following Wednesday's pro-am tuneup, clubhouse consensus ruled it will take a 280-282 to win the classic over the par-72 course.

Main challenge will be the undulating greens.

Nichols said after shooting a 73 in the pro-am event, "I'm going to miss some short putts here," but I also know that everybody else will be missing them, too."

Option Cosman

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Jim Cosman, a 24-year-old right-hander has been optioned by the St. Louis Cardinals to the New York Mets' Jacksonville farm club in the International League, the Cardinals announced Wednesday night.

Accounts For Small Wonders

BOSTON (AP) — Mike Andrews doesn't get the acclaim accorded to his more publicized teammates, but when it comes to the little things that keep a team in the pennant race he doesn't take a back seat to anyone.

The rookie second basemen's latest contribution was a perfect squeeze bunt which sent the tying run across and kept alive a six-run seventh inning rally as the Boston Red Sox snapped the California Angels' seven-game winning streak with a 9-6 victory Wednesday night.

"It was my own idea," Andrews said. "I started thinking about it as soon as the runner got to third. It was the first time I've squeezed home a run in the majors, but I've done it before in the minors."

The Red Sox, trailing 4-1 going into the seventh, had scored two runs and had men on first and third with two out when Andrews pulled off his squeeze. Joe Foy followed with an infield hit, and Carl Yastrzemski lashed a bases-loaded double to climax the rally.

Somebody in the noisy Boston dressing room suggested that if Andrews had popped up his bunt instead of laying it down beautifully to handcuff third baseman Woodie Held he might not be quite such a hero.

"If I popped it up I'd have just kept running," he said.

Manager Dick Williams agreed that it was Andrews' idea "and a hell of an idea." Even if it hadn't worked, the manager said, "it would have been a good shot."

But Andrews' real value to the Red Sox is in his day-in, day-out handling of second base—a position which has been a problem most of the time since the 1940s when Bobby Doerr played the position for Boston.

Felt Bad But Had Good Day

ST. LOUIS (AP)—"I was feeling lousy before the game," Julian Javier said after he hit a two-run homer and a double for three runs in the St. Louis Cardinals 4-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs Wednesday night. The Cards now have a two-game lead over the Cubs at the top of the National League standings.

"I was feeling so bad Orlando (Cepeda) gave me one of those inhalers with ammonia or whatever it is to wake me up," the second basemen went on. "It just shows you, when you feel good you have a lousy day and when you feel lousy you have a good day."

Good day indeed. In the first inning Lou Brock singled off loser Rich Nye, then stole second. Javier doubled him home.

Brock again singled to lead off the fifth and stole his 35th base. Javier followed with a two-run blast to left center.

"When Brock is running," Javier said, "you have a better chance to hit because he opens up the infield."

Brock did some more running in the seventh when he opened up with a triple and scored on an infield out.

Nelson Briles chalked up his fifth victory as he kept the Cubs under control through the first five innings before they scored off him.

It was only his second start of the season but the righthander figures he's really been a starter all year long.

"The only difference between starting and relieving really is that when you relieve you have to get the first man you face out," Briles said. "But after that you're actually the starter because you start the next innings after that."

Two Motorcycle Riders Are Killed

BROOKFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Two motorcycle riders were killed Wednesday when their cycle was struck by a car.

James Lee Shoemaker, 33, and his son, Wayne, about 12, were killed. The car driver, identified by police as Kenneth Bingham, 18, was not injured.

Just Too Tired

Familiar Signs Force Veale Out

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bob Veale, weary from having struggled through a complete game just five days ago, discovered Wednesday night that he just couldn't turn the trick twice in succession.

With Juan Pizarro waiting in the wings, it couldn't have mattered less.

Veale, still relishing his first complete game in 16 starts on July 21, held Los Angeles at bay for 7 1-3 innings in the Pirates' 4-2 victory Wednesday. But then the familiar signs of non-completion set in and in came Pizarro to protect the big left-hander's 12th victory against four defeats.

Pizarro should go into the protection business. He came in with one man on and two balls on Ron Fairly. After completing the walk, he got down to business. Al Ferrara and Jim LeFebvre went down swinging, ending that particular threat, mild as it was.

And in the ninth? First there was Bob Bailey. He took a third strike. Then there was Wes Parker. He swung at a third one. And last there was Jeff Torborg a swinger, but not a hitter.

In other National League action, St. Louis beat Chicago 4-2, Cincinnati bounced Atlanta 7-1 and rained washed out the second game of a scheduled doubleheader, Houston edged Philadelphia 3-2 and New York bombed San Francisco 11-5.

In the American League, Boston beat California 9-6, Washington took Kansas City 6-3, and New York split with Minnesota, winning the first game 6-1 and losing the nightcap 3-2 in 18 innings. Cleveland and Chicago were rained out.

Willie Stargell homered for the Pirates in the fourth inning, but the Dodgers came back to tie the score 2-2. Manny Mota singled in the run that broke the tie in the sixth and Maury Wills walked, stole second, went to third on an error and scored on a forceout for the final run.

The Cardinals extended their league lead to two games by downing the Cubs. Julian Javier drove in three runs, two with a homer, and Lou Brock stole two bases and scored twice. Nelson Briles, 5-4, was the winner, but needed ninth inning help from Jack Lamabe and Joe Hoerner.

Olympic Goal Set By Girl

WINNIPEG (AP) — Sue Gossick, the United States' first gold medalist in the 1967 Pan-Am games, has set her hazel eyes on an unprecedented Olympic goal.

"I want to concentrate on winning the springboard diving medal at Mexico City and then I want to take up skiing on a serious scale," the 5-4½, 105-pound queen of the boards said today. "I'd love to compete in the Winter Olympics."

Miss Gossick, 19, a graduate of Valley Junior College in Los Angeles, beat out teammate Micki King for the springboard crown at the Pan-Am pool Tuesday.

"I've only been skiing three years but I think it is a fantastic sport," the Tarzana, Calif., girl said. "I plan to spend all my Christmas holidays on the slopes at Vail (Colorado) or Squaw Valley (California)."

"Some day — maybe 1972 — I'll be on the United States' Alpine team."

Polly's Pointers® Keeps Young Traveler Busy With Grab Bag of Games By POLLY CRAMER Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR POLLY—To entertain children while traveling, prepare in advance envelopes or packages containing props and suggestions for a game or activity a day. On the outside of each write the day and suggested time for opening, as after breakfast, when you pass a certain place and so on. Anticipation is half the fun and this will occupy considerable time. The contents should be as simple as balloons to blow up, easy books to read or color. Your own imagination will give you ideas for many things to include. Never allow a package to be opened ahead of time. Children's card games are always fun, as well as the old games like counting the gulls and birds (if traveling by boat) or counting white houses (if traveling by car).—EUNICE

GIRLS—I have prepared countless such surprise packages for my own grandchildren and the smaller ones have come to look upon them as part of the fun of a trip. Eunice is right about the period of anticipation between packages being excitement in itself.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—I know there are tricks to every trade and I would very much like to know some of the secrets for doing GOOD embroidery work.—MRS. J. T.

DEAR POLLY—My Pointer is for Mrs. W. L. S. who will be traveling on a boat for seven days and wants some activities to keep small children occupied. We have traveled overseas several times and, to help keep our children happy, I buy each one a small canvas zipper bag. Each child chooses two favorite toys, such as a doll or toy truck, to put in the bag. I buy a number of new small items, such as coloring books and crayons, Old Maid cards, soap bubble sets and so on. They are wrapped separately and only opened at specified times.—MRS. H. F. H.

Also, a package of six-inch squares of construction paper and a small book on elementary folding is so intriguing you will become involved yourself.—ELIZABETH

The Mature Parent Look Past Broken Object To See a Child's Remorse By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Mark had become very proud of his skill in operating his new rocket toy. So proud was he that he insisted on shooting it in the living room while his father was busy, in hope of receiving more admiration. He had to be shouted at before he'd take it elsewhere. Then, out on the sun porch, its release lever stopped working. The rocket wouldn't budge. Again and again, Mark wiggled the lever. Nothing happened. No beautiful upward rush, no disengagement of the nose cone, no delicious spreading of its little parachute. Suddenly, Mark couldn't stand it. Seizing his rocket, he ran back to the living room for help with its faulty lever. So anxious was he for his father's reassurance that he failed to see the cord for the lamp that had been temporarily transferred to the mantel-piece. At the sound of the crash, his father looked up. He looked at the broken lamp. Then he looked at his child's face. And what he said was: "It doesn't matter, son. I never liked that lamp much anyway. You sweep up the pieces and after I've got this tree out in the yard, we'll drive downtown together and pick out a nicer one for mother."

Ever since, Mark and his father have been feeling a new kind of love for each other. It is so real that though they will often displease each other in the future, nothing will be able to destroy it. A deep, precious thing can occur between us and a child when we are able to look away from broken things back to the child's face. The trouble always is, we are more interested in the things he has destroyed than we are in the destroyer. So we don't see the naked apprehension and remorse in the child's eyes. And these naked feelings, unnoted, meeting no response, begin to despair of notice and get choked off.

The child who's broken a lamp or spilled his milk or torn his sweater concludes that human sympathy, interest and affection are not only unattainable from us but don't exist for him anywhere. Gradually, he stops knowing that he wants them, and may end, not only in scorning his own needs for affection but the same needs in you and me.

Such scornfulness makes much sadness in the world. But it can't be avoided so long as lamps are more important to us than children's feelings.

11 Gold Medals Collected

WINNIPEG, Canada (AP) — The United States entered the fourth day of Pan-American Games action today with 11 of 15 possible gold medals bundled up and its powerful track and field team yet to explode onto the scene.

The talented U.S. swimming team Wednesday night accounted for five gold medals in an opening six-event program which produced two world records — by a couple of phenomenal kids.

Mark Spitz, 17-year-old wonder from Santa Clara, Calif., won the 200-meter butterfly in 2:06.4, shattering the world mark of 2:06.6 set by Australia's Kevin Berry in the 1964 Olympics.

Canada's 16-year-old Elaine Tanner snapped a string of five straight U.S. triumphs with a superb women's 200-meter backstroke effort of 2:24.44, smashing the world record of 2:26.4 set by South Africa's Karen Muir in 1966.

Miss Tanner also may dent U.S. aquatic superiority in tonight's five-event program which includes the women's 100-meter backstroke.

Uncle Sam's wrestlers could come close to sweeping all eight gold medals in tonight's closing competition, with Oklahoma City's Wayne Baughman already owning the 191-pound crown.

The Yank track team which begins flexing its muscles in Saturday's opening finals including the 10,000-meter run, javelin and shot put is tabbed to take at least 18 gold medals on the men's 24-event program.

The U.S. basketball team Wednesday continued to make a walkaway of its quest for fifth straight Pan-Am title by whumping Peru 93-37 with five players hitting double figures.

The U.S. cagers now stand 2-0 after opening Tuesday with a 131-43 clouting of Colombia.

In baseball, the U.S. squad won its second straight game 8-3 over Puerto Rico and stand 2-1. The only Yank defeat came in a 4-3 opening loss to defending champion Cuba which Wednesday downed Mexico 4-1 to stand 2-0.

Other U.S. aquatic victories Wednesday all on Pan-Am record-breaking performances were scored by Don Havens, 19, Granada Hills, Calif., in the 100-meter free style; 15-year-old Katie Ball, Jacksonville, Fla., in the women's 200-meter breaststroke; Pam Kruse, Pompano Beach, Fla., in the women's 200-meter free style, and springboard diver Sue Gossick of Tazana, Calif.

Holdouts Work On New Case

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer
The case of the five holdouts of the Cleveland Browns, which has stirred the interest of most everyone in pro football, may switch from an all-for-one and one-for-all to a one-for-me situation Friday.

The case pits Art Modell, owner of the Browns, against John Wooten, a guard from Colorado, Leroy Kelly, a running back from Morgan State, John Brown, a tackle from Syracuse, Mike Howell, a defensive back from Grambling and Sid Williams, a linebacker from Southern University.

Their attorney is scheduled to meet Friday with counsel for Modell in a second attempt to reach a settlement. The five were scheduled to report to training camp last Saturday, but didn't show. They face $100-a-day fines until they report.

The key issue appears to be the demand of the five that all of them must be traded if one is. Modell has said he would not agree to such a stipulation of vital concern to every front office.

Meantime, halfback Donny Anderson, a bonus baby from Texas Tech, worked out with the champion Green Bay Packers for the first time since being released from Army reserve training. He is expected to challenge Elijah Pitts for the halfback post vacated by the departure of Paul Hornung.

Jim Nance, the Most Valuable Player in the AFL last year, signed his contract with the Boston Patriots for what Mike Holovak coach and general manager, said was a substantial increase.

The former Syracuse fullback, who set an AFL rushing record with the Pats last year of 1,458 yards, declared, "I can now concentrate on just playing football."

Al Reynolds, guard on the AFL champion Kansas City Chiefs, suffered a ruptured blood vessel in his left arm during practice.

In another AFL development, the Miami Dolphins signed linebacker John Bramlett to complete a trade with Denver.

Albert Quie: Resident Republican Congressional Thorn

By DAVE BURGIN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—A Democratic congressional aide interrupted Republican Congressman Albert Quie's salad and iced tea lunch to ask if he could borrow a pen.

"I have two," Quie pronounced. Kwee said, "One with red ink, one with blue. Which do you want?"

"Oh, the red will do fine," the Democrat said.

"Great," Quie answered. "That's my LBJ budget pen."

The Democrat gave one of those polite chuckles. He might have taken it as a compliment, though, because he had just felt the needle of Washington's resident Republican thorn in President Lyndon Johnson's ample side.

"Not a thorn for the sake of being a thorn," says Quie, 43, in his sixth term representing Minnesota's 1st District. "Some presidential thorns in the past have been just plain old pains in the backside. I like to think I'm constructive about it."

Al Quie is perfect for the role, beginning with the name. "Quie is Norwegian," he said. "It means pregnant heifer."

He wears a big friendly grin. His crewcut in the Era of the Mop doesn't make him look square, just earnest with a touch of All-America. His voice and diction are crisp and smooth. He sounds like television's Hugh Downs and probably could get a network job if Congress became a bore.

That won't happen any time soon, though. Despite a decade of congressional experience, Quie is just getting started.

As second ranking member of the important Education and Labor committee, he knows political power. As a thinking, articulate veteran in the House, he is constantly sought for leadership and advice. And his role as No. 1 House critic of President Johnson's war on poverty keeps him in the public eye.

"But hold it," Quie said. "Being the thorn isn't all that easy. When Johnson's juggernaut gets rolling it can be quite an unsettling experience. I know, because he's got it rolling against me and some of my colleagues right now."

Earlier this year, when Quie was peering away at the President's education program, Johnson reportedly asked an aide, "What's this Quie want anyway? What's his problem?"

Johnson then began his well-known twisting of arms and, in May, the "Quie amendment" to the administration's aid-to-education bill was defeated, 197 to 167.

"I wasn't too disappointed," Quie said. "I feel our program is just a matter of time. We made a lot of progress even in losing, and I'm not just being a politician."

The administration's bill gives aid to local schools districts for specified programs. The "Quie amendment" would have given school aid to the states in the form of block grants.

"I want to see a federal partnership with state and local government, that's all. I want to promote the concept of community action."

The administration's legislation is too federal, and there isn't enough brilliance on the federal level to get in to all the different state and local governments to see what their problems are.

"Of course, the President doesn't think that way. But all you have to do is look at the state of things in Office of Economic Opportunity programs, for example, and you'll see that something's got to be done."

One controversial Quie suggestion in the poverty area deals with having one-third of the people in communities receiving federal poverty funds actively bound to serving in the administration of it. "Again, community action," he said.

"I'm from the small communities in southwest Minnesota. I'm a moderate Republican but that doesn't make any difference here. I know community action works. And I'm afraid, Mr. President, that I'll have to keep on being a nut about it until we can make some of these ideas realities."

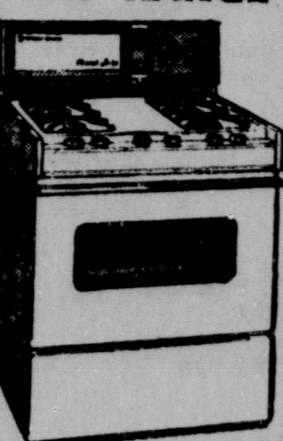

Presidents have had thorns on the Hill before. The trick is to be an effective thorn, spurring two-party thinking. "Right," Quie bubbled, "a constructive nut."

Albert Quie learned his trade early. As an ex-Navy pilot in World War II and postwar student at St. Olaf's College in Minnesota, he once buzzed the campus upside down at third-floor level in an old Navy trainer.

A shaken coed who first refused a date with "that nut" later became his wife.

Refugees Blocked By Words

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD
AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — A dispute over three little words—State of Israel—is blocking the repatriation of up to 200,000 Arab refugees who fled across the Jordan River during and after the Arab-Israeli war.

With only 14 days to go, no applications have been filled out for the refugees to return to the west bank of the Jordan, which Israel occupied in the June war.

The Jordanian government has been urging the refugees to go home but it is not yet known how many want to.

The Israelis announced that refugees could begin returning Aug. 10 provided their applications were approved after security and health screening.

Israeli authorities supplied 7,000 printed application forms to Roland Troyer, a representative of the International Red Cross committee in Jordan.

The Jordanian authorities refused to accept the forms because they were headed in English "State of Israel—Ministry of the Interior." The Jordanians considered this an attempt to squeeze out recognition of Israel as a nation, something the Arab countries have refused to do since the Jewish state was established in 1948.

All but a few of the forms were returned to the Israelis.

Jordan earlier drew up its own form for would-be repatriates but Israel rejected them without explanation. The Jordanians are reported insisting on a form headed by the Red Cross symbol and some such noncommittal wording as "application for repatriation."

The Israelis have indicated privately they would accept such a form if Jordanian officials negotiate directly with them. But the Jordanians feel this also would imply recognition of Israel and open them to certain criticism from the other Arab states.

There was speculation that U.N. intervention might be invoked to break the deadlock. Nils G. Gussing, touring the Middle East as Secretary-General U Thant's special representative, was reported aware of the situation.

Deferred Exemption Attempt

JOPLIN, Mo. (AP) — Applications from St. Louis and St. Louis County for exemption from state air pollution control regulations have been deferred to Sept. 27 by the Missouri Air Conservation Commission.

The two governing bodies had asked that local regulations replace the state regulations. E. F. Porter Jr., executive secretary of the commission, recommended that both applications be approved.

St. Louis County also asked that the leaf-burning regulation in the county be repealed or amended, but the commission rejected this.

Claustrophobia May Be Excuse

SEATTLE (AP) — An economy move on the part of county commissioners may have provided Seattleites with a reason for being excused from jury duty—claustrophobia.

The commissioners have approved a plan to brick up the windows in the courthouse to save $7,200 a year in maintenance costs.

Superior Court Judge Lloyd Shorett said Wednesday, "I certainly would feel that a juror's being subject to claustrophobia would be grounds for excusing him from service in a walled-in courtroom."
